Congress Fashions 51/2 Billion Dollar Tax Reduction for 1946: Ponder Postwar Army Training

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When epinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's newspaper.)

With freedom of speech assured under Allied orders, former Japanese political prisoner addresses gathering in Tokyo. Under proposed liberalized constitution, all Nipponese elements would be afforded opportunity for recognition in nation's governmental councils.

TAXES:

Good News

Though the senate and house had yet to compromise their differences, John Q. Public could look forward to substantial reductions in income taxes in 1946, and American business was assured generous relief for the immediate postwar period.

No less than 21/2 billion dollars was expected to be lopped off of individual income taxes as a result of provisions for permitting $500 exemptions for dependents before payment of the normal 3 per cent levy and the scaling down of surtax rates.

Close to another 8 billion dollars was scheduled to be pared from corporation income taxes through substantial reduction or total elimination of the excess profits assessment; repeal of the declared value excess profits and capital stock levies, and graduated decrease in surtax rates on companies with less than $60,000 net return.

In addition to income tax reductions, the use tax on automobile and boats was expected to be dropped. Solons were divided on the question of wartime luxury levies, however, with the house for cutting present rates to prewar levels July 1 and the senate against the action.

With reserves well over 6 billion dollars, both houses were unanimous in freezing present social security payroll taxes at 1 per cent on employee and employer alike and estalling an automatic increase to 21/2 per cent apiece January 1.

Under the tax relief bill drawn up by the senate, G.I.s would not be required to pay taxes on service compensation during the war years, and officers would be permitted to spread tax liabilities over a three year period interest free.

LABOR:

Setting Pattern

With both Henry Ford II and United Automobile Workers' leaders expressing confidence in settlement of a wage adjustment at the company, government officials held high hopes that an agreement might result in the establishment of a postwar pay pattern and clear the way for speedy reconversion.

Government optimism was a welcome note in the dreary labor picture, pointed up by the deadlock in negotiations between the UAW and General Motors over the CIO union's demands for a 30 per cent wage increase to maintain wartime "take-home" pay and the corporation's resistance to the demands because of possible effects on prices.

Setting the pattern for other CIO unions, the UAW declared that General Motors was well able to dip into alleged huge wartime profits to carry over any losses accruing from higher wages until future production reached big volume levels. Reflecting industrial sentiment for its own part, General Motors denied exorbitant wartime earnings and declared any withdrawal from reserves would crimp expansion plans.

As the companies and unions clashed, the administration worked on a reconversion wage policy designed to guide negotiations through the troublesome days ahead. Strongly influenced by labor, the government reportedly favored substantial wage boosts to maintain wartime "take-home" pay while freezing prices at prewar levels, except in hardship cases.

Having received President Truman's recommendation for one year of postwar military training for American youth 17 to 20, congress adopted a cautious attitude on the question, with one ear perked for popular reaction and the other for military argument.

Personal congressional response to the President's request varied, with Senator Revercomb (Rep., W. Va.) declaring "... I am open minded

—I want to hear both sides of this. " while Representative Celler (Dem., N. Y.) exclaimed "

Meanwhile, it was estimated that about 975,000 youth would be called up for training each year under the President's program, with 250,000 rejected for physical or mental deficiencies. Because of weather considerations, the largest number of camps undoubtedly would be located in the south, with regular army officers and non-commissioned officers in charge. Fewer routine tasks, such as kitchen police, would be in store for reservists, military sources said.

JAPAN:

Reform Imminent

Her military machine smashed, Japan's highly developed economic monopolies, designed for foreign as well as domestic exploitation, also faced imminent dissolution as part of the Allied program to strip Nippon of her war-making potential and democratize the country.

The losers figured to be the five great financial-industrial families of Japan, which, as the dominant civilian powers, had exercised strong pressure on the nation's foreign policies. Backed both politically and financially by the government, the big five, known as the "zaibatsu," were heavy investors in overseas development.

By smashing the "zaibatsu," the Allies planned to loosen their grip over Japanese politics and permit more liberal and democratic elements to exert influence over government direction. At the same time, destruction of the great combines promised freer opportunity for economic development in the coun-

Huge Postwar Market for Autos Looms

Potential demand for automobiles by domestic consumers next year should amount to 9,843,000 cars, after allowing for 331,000 cars to meet the increase in population, says the Alexander Hamilton institute.

At the beginning of 1942, the number of passenger automobiles in operation in the United States was at a record peak of 27,364,000, results of an extensive survey showed. As the result of the stoppage of production during the war, the prospect is that there will be only 21,921,000 cars in operation at the beginning of 1946. Taking into account the increase in population since 1942, the number of passenger automobiles in operation at the beginning of 1946 will thus be 6,768,000 cars below the normal level and in addition 2,744,000 cars may be scrapped in 1946.

AGRICULTURE: Global Pact

First permanent body of the United Nations, the Food and Agriculture organization (FAO) came into existence in the grand ballroom of the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec, Canada, with 30 nations formally signing its constitution.

Though possessing no executive powers over member nations, FAO seeks, through voluntary interchange of information and effort, to improve agricultural production, raise nutritional standards and better the living conditions of rural populations. Indicative of the big job FAO has on its hands, two-thirds of the world's population is estimated to be ill-fed, with many facing periodic starvation.

Signatories to the FAO constitution include Australia, Belgium, Canada, China, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Egypt, France, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Iceland, India, Iraq, Liberia, Luxembourg, Czechoslovakia, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Peru, Union of South Africa, Philippines, England, United States and Vene-

As the three major parties and a smattering of smaller organizations moved to write a new political charter for the country, the Popular Republican movement, backed by General De Gaulle, loomed as a counterweight between the Communists and Socialists. Known as a Catholic Liberal party, and led by Foreign Minister Bidault, the PRM's surprising demonstration of strength in the elections was indicative of the quick defense thrown up by moderate elements against the threat of extreme radicalism.

The new alignment found France's political picture characteristically mixed, with the Socialists joined with the PRM for a western bloc of European nations against Communist opposition; the Communists committed to a swift program of nationalization of industries; the Socialists favoring more study of such an undertaking and the PRM for a moderate course.

FIRE RAIDS: U. S. Vulnerable

Back from a tour of war-wracked Europe, Anthony J. Mullaney, chief fire marshal of Chicago, Ill., and a noted authority on fires, declared that investigations showed that no great city could withstand concentrated explosive and incendiary raids and domination of the skies overhead was the only assurance of

In making his disclosure, Mullaney cited the obliteration of Hamburg, Germany, where all walls were of brick, numerous firebreaks existed, no skyscrapers reared up and an efficient fire department operated. In a contrast indicative of the vulnerability of American cities, Mullaney cited localities dotted with frame buildings, wood lathe and plaster construction, tall buildings, and few empty spaces for allowing a sweeping fire to peter out.

In burning out Hamburg, Mullaney said, great squads of Allied bombers first dropped explosives to rip up structures, with incendiaries then being loosed upon the open wreckage. Towering flames licked up the oxygen to create a vacuum into which air from surrounding areas then rushed in, creating fierce "fire storms." With instruments recording temperatures of 1,400 degrees F., over 40,000 persons were said to have died from the flames, heat inhalation or asphyxiation.

NAVY:

Speed Releases

With nearly 300,000 enlisted men and officers already released since V-J Day, the navy planned for the demobilization of an additional 800,-000 by the first of next year through a reduction in discharge scores.

Following establishment of lower scores November 1, the navy contemplated an even further cut December 1, with male officers' point requirements pared to 44; enlisted male personnel to 39; WAVE officers to 30, and enlisted WAVE personnel 24.

In cutting its discharge scores, the navy left its point computation unaltered, with one-half point for each year of age; one-half point for each full month of service; 10 points for dependents regardless of number, and one-fourth point for each month of service outside of the U.S., since September 1, 1939.

TURKEYS:

G.I.s and civilians alike are assured of ample supplies of turkeys for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays even though the size of birds may be smaller than usual due to growers' speeding up production upon government demand.

Purchasing turkeys as early as last August, the army quartermaster corps assured plentiful stocks for service personnel. Most of the birds already have been dressed and stored in warehouses or are in process of shipment overseas.

Sounder Education Needed To Maintain Free World

Economics and Geography Among Studies Required to Ground Students in the Problems at Home and Abroad.

> By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

Washington, D. C.

(This is the first of two articles on the subject of the "new reconver-

In the last two months the public has learned a lot about the importance of industrial reconversion. For many more months, business men, with the help of the best technical advice they could obtain, have been preparing to shift from wartime to peacetime production. Government has shared the knowledge of its experts and proffered its co-operation. Labor has contributed its sugges-tions. All three know what they want. Together they hope to obtain a successful synthesis.

But what many people do not realize is that the nation, the whole world, for that matter, is facing another reconversion problem, equally as difficult to solve, equally as important to achieve. It is the reconversion of our whole educational system, and upon its success depends the political future of democracy and its economic future as well, as embodied in the theory and outworking of free enterprise.

It is no exaggeration to say that our current educational system, which along with our wartime in-dustrial system made Allied victory possible, is no more adapted to meet the new and startling problems of the postwar world than the Japanese defense could meet the atomic Enlightened educators everywhere realize this. In a short time experts will meet in London to work out a program outlined in San Francisco by the men and women who planned the educational and cultural council of the United Nations. Here at home and in other democratic countries, domestic educational policies are being reshaped to meet the new conditions.

Education for world freedom is an important objective; education for freedom in the land of the free is equally important, for it is the foundation stone of world democracy. We have the task of reconverting our own antiquated machinery so that it will be geared to produce and maintain freedom. The United Nations' task is to build new machinery which will evolve a product which must displace the Nazi-Fascist teachings which still have their hold on a large segment of the population. Our own product must be both a weapon of offense and of

We have a powerful example in the need for this in the demonstrated strength of the Nazi ideology and the weakness of what we have so far produced to combat it.

Nazi Propaganda Remains Strong

A report made public only a week or two ago reveals how "Naziism at its blackest," as the report describes it, is being kept alive in a series of "resistance clubs" in Germany scattered from the North sea to the Bavarian mountains. Allied investigators have pieced together an appalling picture of a widespread activity based upon race hatred, and other Nazi principles with which the German youth has been so thoroughly indoctrinated in a manner pointed out in these columns some time ago and which I then said must be dealt with eventually.

The offense is powerful, and the weakness of our defense is illustrated in recent dispatches telling us how Nazi propaganda is affecting the viewpoint of the American army of occupation. A major is reported as doubting the truth of the atrocity stories in the concentration camp of Dachau located only a few miles from where he was stationed. American soldiers are heard parroting the familiar Goebbels' fabrication that Germany was forced into the war; that Hitler had his faults but was really great in many respects, or if Hitler's glory is found to be too goat to excuse German war guilt. I have just come from a long talk with one of America's great educators, John Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education. It was he who introduced me to the phrase, "the new reconversion."

"Our democratic system is threatened from within and without," he said to me earnestly. "The Amer-

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., | ican school gave our polyglot nation the solidarity to carry on the war successfully. But," he added, "we have severe tests ahead. We must educate for freedom, and educate for existence in a newly integrated world of which we are an integral part. We must understand our own problem and the problems of oth-

I couldn't help applying this theory to the stories from Germany. A thorough understanding of democracy is proof against Nazi propaganda. An understanding of other peoples and events beyond our borders which affect us-as the rise of Hitler and Mussolini affected us-would make us deaf to German prevarications and excuses.

In order to meet the threats against democracy from within and from without, Mr. Studebaker believes, with most of his colleagues, that our present educational system will have to be thoroughly renovated. "Both the plant and the product must be remodeled," he says.

He chose two subjects-geography and economics-as examples of how the product must be altered.

Knowledge of Conditions Vital

Geography is important because it is a study of the world in which we live. It is a study of the peoples who live in the world-of our very near, thanks to jet propulsion and atomic energy, if not always very dear neighbors. Geography is also the study of the pursuits, the industries of the people of the world. Its grasp is essential if we are to bring intelligent thought to judgment of events and the conditions at home and abroad and their effect upon each other and upon us.

"And yet, geography was never taught to our people," Mr. Studebaker says. "We stop teaching it at the eighth grade. The younger children, from three to eight, are taught by teachers who themselves never had more than eighth grade instruction in the subject."

And his second example of one of our educational products which must be strengthened, economics, "belongs still less to the people.

Only 5 per cent of the high school pupils ever studied economics, he informed me, and only 5 per cent of these ever learned anything about international trade.

"How can we possibly meet the problems arising now if we do not understand this subject? How can we possibly maintain free enterprise if we cannot pass a considered judgment on the questions that the papers are full of every day? How can a person say whether a wage increase is fair if he has never studied the simplest theories of supply and demand, or the more complicated relations of wages, costs, profits?"

And in the international field, he continued, how could a person who had never learned the fundamentals of international trade know whether a tariff was justified, whether a cartel was dangerous, whether certain foreign business activities benefitted the people as a whole, whether free competition or government subsidy was a better policy? How could they advise their congressman to vote on the Bretton Woods agreement, or the policy of foreign loans?

Just as geography suffers because its teaching ends before maturity is reached (maturity in this sense is the 15-16 year group, roughly high school age), economics is begun too late. It is offered as a one-year, high school course and boiled down into such a concentrated potion that not only are vital elements omitted (such as international trade) but it becomes a dry and highly abstruse subject. Furthermore, since it is often an elective (a subject I'll touch on in a later article), it may be omitted entirely because it is "hard."

These two subjects are only two examples of those which should, in Mr. Studebaker's opinion, make up a solid "core" of education available to all.

"This core," he says, "is essential if we are to build solidarity in a democratic society. A certain group of vital, basic subjects which will help us understand the problems that threaten democracy, the downto-earth facts necessary to give us the basis for a sound faith in our aging from England to America, Lark shannon's ship goes down. She is saved by Galt Withe, a bound servant, but made prisoner at the inn to which he made prisoner. She escapes and is found by her sweetheart, David North, who is disguised as a gypsy, to get a line on Dr. Matson, a slave pirate. Lark and David fall into the hands of Dr. Matson, but escape at night, and finally arrive in Norfolk where she expects to meet David. At the state fair Lark rides Red Raskall the horse she had managed to hobble after the shipwreck, and wins the race. with the money she buys Galt's ffeedom. However, there is a dispute in court over the ownership of the horse,

CHAPTER XXI

Lark snatched up a tray filled with butter-molds and carried it to the spring-house. When she came back Cupsie said, "Ye look real worndown, honey. Ah wants ye ter look pert. Lemme stop now an' cook ye up a bite. After dat I'll press you' blue bomberzine, Miss Lark, whilst ye crimp yo' haih."

"Im not going to crimp it," Lark said exasperatedly, "You go get Mr. Galt's dinner. I'll finish this." . . Don't churn so

"Yas'm. . hahd, Miss Lark, you suah Lawd sloppin' half de cream away. Chuckling, Cupsie went to the kitchen. Lark worked until she was finished but completely fagged out. The flies, thick as berries on a fruit drying tray, clung heavily to the cheesecloth. Lark shook it and sent them into a disturbed buzzing protest. She molded the last of the butter and set it in the spring-house and went into the house, just as Galt came home from the fields.

"Why, Lark!" Galt followed her from the warm pleasant kitchen into the stuffy chill of the parlor. He leaned down to touch a sulphur spunk to the frilled paper fan under the logs. Then he straightened up and glanced around with a vaguely puzzled air. "Something's funny," he said, "something looks different, lonesome, somehow. Where are Minnie's worsted mottoes?"

Lark looked guilty. "I took them down," she said primly, "those and the crayon portraits, Dan and the . Oh, Galt, they're so common, so outrageously vulgar. Galt said, "Lark, this is Minnie's

But the first guest to arrive was not the expected one. It was David North. He apologized that the press of business had kept him from calling sooner, but refused the tea that she offered. He had, he said, only a few minutes to stay.

"Oh, David," she said, "I was so happy that you, yourself, won."

"I expected to win," he said, stiffly. "I was in the right. That's what courts of law are for, Lark, to carry out justice.

'Yes, of course," she said hastily, "I quite understand that. I just wanted to tell you how happy I was. I tried to find you to tell you so that day, but I couldn't catch you."

"Did you, Lark, did you really? I didn't know that." David crossed the room and sat down beside her on the little love seat. "I didn't know you cared. Mara said you ran away from me, that she wanted to make you comfortable and happy until I could come back from my business trip and we could all be together.

"But, David, I didn't want to be together' when you belonged to her. I was terribly hurt that you hadn't told me you were promised to Mara.

She pointed out that she might organize an equestrienne course for some of her young ladies. You would be equipped, she felt, to instruct in that. She heard that Madame Farrington had shown you special favor and thought perhaps you would be able to influence her to send some of her grandchildren to the school. She said the commissions would be yours. Then you wouldn't feel you were living on her charity.'

Poor David, Lark thought, he doesn't see, not even the least little

"David, I don't know anything about Virginia society. I've no place in it and I don't want to have any." But Lark, isn't young Withe here, too? Mara pointed out to me how unsuitable it was for you to be staying here without a chaperone. I feel like I've failed you. I promised I'd look out for you and I haven't done it. I'm not promised to Mara. I admire and respect her greatly. But Lark, why, honey, I love you!"

farewell to the two ladies. "Mr. North, wasn't it?" Madame Farrington asked with a twinkle in her eye.

"I suppose he wanted you to come back and teach at that dreadfully genteel school that those obnoxiously elegant Miss Hastings run," Madame Farrington said, curiously. "I hear that the most objectionable one of them (Mara, is that her name?) is planning to marry him.'

Lark said, as she led Mad Farrington into the parlor, "Mr. North is a fine business man.

"Business man!" Madame Farrington dismissed the breed with a wave of her ringed hand. "This is farming country," she said, "all our men round here are farmers." She glanced out of the window to where Galt could be seen astride Red Raskall, busy with the direction of the Immediately she fell on the embroidered texts, gilded corn, and highly colored chromos with delighted appreciation. She laughed with Lark over them. "We'd love to," Lark answered and added, "Minnie's a character, but I've found out she's a lot more than that. She's so good, so kind,

Madame Farrington patted her hand. "So fine, in spite of her eccentricities. I share your admiration for Minnie. We were all delighted when it was her quick thinking that saved the horse for you. If Plascutt had won his case he would have been ostracized, completely ostracized, by the entire county."

"Well, I must be going now, but I've enjoyed my visit immensely. You must come to see me soon, Lark." Madame Farrington rose and gathered up her reticule and furred mantle, moving toward the door. "And, when you come, bring that good-looking young beau of yours with you. Tell him if he's going to get ahead as a farmer he'll need advice about his winter wheat and about the Raskall's training. I've been in the game a long time and I know a thing or two, in spite of my own grandchildren's opinion to the contrary. You two young people will pull well in harness together."

With a twinkle of laughter in her eye, she leaned over and kissed Lark quickly as she started calling her coachman to leave that pretty little yellow wench and help her into her carriage, threatening him with a whipping if he didn't come this instant; and then, when she saw him already outside, giving him the sugar cake she had filched from tea for his latest picaninny. Her black eyes smiled merrily at Lark. "Don't forget to ask Minnie about the Christmas party," she said. "But I'll be seeing you and Galt before then, many times!"

As Lark went back in the house, she heard Galt's voice calling her from the stable, asking if she didn't want to come help him pitch down hay for the horses' supper, as she usually did.

She ran to him. He looked up. surprised to see her in her good blue dress. "Oh, I remember now," he said, "I'd clean forgot. Did the old lady come? Was she hi-faluting? I meant to come help you out. Lark, honest I did, honey!"

Lark said, "She came, Galt, and she was fine. But before then I had another visitor . . . David. Galt-he-he-"

"He wanted you to marry him? Lark, you look so funny." He looked at her queerly and said slowly, "That's what you've been wanting always, isn't it?"

She nodded. "Why, Lark, darling, you're crying!" He put his arms around her. Red Raskall whinnied softly. Lark said. "I'm crying because I was so foolish, so blind. First I wanted David more than I could bear, almost. Then I didn't want him. Then I wasn't sure. Did you ever know such a silly girl, Galt, ever in all your born days?"

"I never knew so sweet a girl, Lark, so dear a one!"

Then, suddenly, she was laughing. 'Even Cupsie had more sense than I had. She knew all along. She tried to tell me. . . . Galt, you don't like girls who crimp their hair do you? You wouldn't want your

He studied for a minute. "I like your hair, Lark, I like everything about you, just like it is. I wouldn't want a change.'

PRESIDENT IN MISSOURI

WASHINGTON. - The next two months of President Truman's life are filled with junkets similar to that which he has just taken through the heart of the Mark Twain country. At first, newsmen covering the White House figured that he took these trips for political reasons, but they have now changed their minds.

The President takes these junkets because he loves them. Never since that fateful April day when he took the oath of office has he had more fun than at Caruthersville, Mo., where he swapped yarns with the local postmaster, got up at 6:15 to 'spit' in the Mississippi river, and ran out in the street to ring the bell of a small-scale locomotive.

The locomotive was being conducted through the streets of Caruthersville by the "Forty and Eight" club of the American Legion (commemorating the "40 men-8 horses" capacity of French freight cars in the last war). Suddenly the President of the United States spied it. Perhaps it reminded him of 1918 when he unloaded artillery horses from those same French freight cars in the Meuse sector.

Anyway, with a shout to War Mobilizer John Snyder, who once worked behind the cashier's cage of small-town Missouri-Arkansas banks, Harry went over to the locomotive. Right then and there the war mobilizer and the President of the United States had the time of their lives staging a locomotive bell-pulling contest.

SECRET SERVICE FROWNS

Another incident the secret service men didn't like was when the President arose shortly after 6 a. m., left the austere frame 42-room Majestic hotel which had been cleared of guests in his honor, and walked down to the Mississippi river. It seems that there is an old custom in those parts which makes it incumbent upon a visitor to spit in the Father of Waters.

The secret service men, not being in the know regarding this spitting custom, were taken by surprise. One of them, however, spotted the truant President of the United States ambling off in the direction of the river, sounded the alarm, and a few minutes later, four bodyguards were trailing him.

After Harry got through spitting, he skimmed a few stones out over the river, found that his technique as a stone-skimmer hadn't changed since boyhood days, and was then content to go back to town.

On the way, he met two old Caruthersville cronies, Nearl Helm, county wholesale liquor dealer, and James Reeves, former commander of the American Legion. swapped stories as they walked down to the post office, where they dropped in to see Postmaster Bailey S. Brooks. There they swapped some . . .

BOMBS FOR CONGRESS

Six members of a congressional committee sailing to Europe last August were nearly scared out of their wits while on the Queen Mary. Headed by Rep. Louis Rabaut of Michigan, a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee had debated whether to fly or to go by boat. Finally they decided to sailbut they wished they hadn't.

The group which decided to enjoy some relaxation on steamer chairs included Dean Gillespie of Colorado, Robert Jones of Ohio, Butler Hare of South Carolina, Thomas O'Brien of Illinois and Judge John Kerr of North Carolina. Kerr had argued for the boat trip and finally convinced his colleagues.

The congressmen were just beginning to relax on their first night out from New York when an army officer came to Chairman Rabaut with a disturbing message.

"The skipper thought you gentlemen ought to know," he said, "that we have just received a code message from the FBI. They report they have discovered there are a number of incendiary bombs on the boat scheduled to go off at midnight.

"There are several companies of Japanese - American troops on board," the officer told Rabaut, 'and Japan is still at war with the United States."

Rabaut called his colleagues together and told them the news. Judge Kerr's first comment was: "I wonder if the skipper has ordered airplanes to hover around the ship.'

All were alerted the entire night while the ship's crew searched unsuccessfully for the bombs. No trace of them was ever found, but the restful relaxation the congressmen had hoped for was not achieved until they set foot on solid ground once again.

MRS. MARY MAJOR STOPS STICKY IRON

PENDENNIS, KANSAS. - Mrs. Mary D. Major has discovered one of the secrets of Faultless Starch, according to a letter she wrote recently. She said,

"The last time I was in town, I purchased a box of Faultless Starch, and used it on my I surely was pleased with the results, when I ironed my clothes. My iron just glided along. There was no sticky starch on my iron. The starch is well named. It is all you say it is. It is absolutely faultless."

Isn't that a fine letter? She says that there was "no sticky starch on my iron"-and, of course, that means she did not have a "sticky

STOP YOUR STICKY IRON

If you have to fight a "sticky fron" every time you iron, change to Faultless Starch and see the difference. It's no fun to iron with a "sticky iron." It's hard work to iron when the iron seems to stick at the end of each stroke. Your arms, your back, your neck, your legs ache with strain when you have a "sticky iron."

But you don't HAVE to fight a "sticky iron" 1 Just starch your wash with Faultless Starch-and see how easy it is to iron! You see, Faultless Starch contains ironing-aids that make your ironing smooth, easy and beautiful. With Faultless Starch you make ironing a joy-not a job. And when ironing is a joy, it's really fun to do beautiful starching.

SAVE STARCH-MAKING TIME Another wonderful thing about Faultless Starch is that you can make perfect hot starch WITH-OUT COOKING! And in barely a minute! Just cream the starch with a little cool water and add boiling water while stirring. That's all! Isn't that easy?

So change to the starch that Mrs. Major says, "It is all you say it is: It is absolutely faultless:" FAULTLESS STARCH-at your grocery store.-Adv ...

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

WASHINGTON. - People do not seem to understand the meaning of "inflation," which is being raised as a spectre behind the daily news of strikes, wage debates and government economic planning.

No one in this country has seen an inflation walking, or I should say, running. Adults with memories may recall it as something which happened in Germany after the last war, when a bushel basket of money was necessary to buy a meal. But in general the news debate treats it as an infinite kind of prospect without dimensions, a sort of economic hell they know can happen, yet they cannot picture it.

The kind of inflation talked about now, should be easy to un-Jerstand thoroughly. We have gone far enough toward it to make the landmarks visible. It is unlike any which has gone before in history, because primarily it is a price inflation.

In Germany, the wreckage of the money system and the bankruptcy of the country, brought the condition in which a glass of beer cost 100 marks or so. In other countries, such as China, a depleted treasury already has brought comparative inflation.

We are not bankrupt and our treasury took in 45 billion dollars last year. Ours is an inflation of prices directly. We have a shortage of goods, all goods, due to war wastes, increased consumption and free distribution of our supplies around the world. The cost of many things already has doubled since before the war.

WILL REFUSE TO BUY

Now the unions want a 30 per cent wage increase in this time of a goods shortage. However much they get of their demand, prices will be increased at least that much and probably more. My experience as a consumer in this brave new economic world has convinced me that all that is needed to increase prices is an excuse.

If a man can sell his goods for an ever increasing price, he will do it. If he controls a sellers' market such as we have now where people pay anything asked, he would be superhuman if he did not resist both the loose government regulations and conscience, if any.

But the course of upward wage jumps and upward price jumps will run, as soon as the shortage of goods is over, into buyer resentment. The wageinflationary spiral inevitably must encounter the day when people will not buy.

Indeed there necessarily must be a day when they cannot pay the price if they would, because the wages of no other class have increased as have the wages of union labor. We are getting to the point where we can see the people will close their pocketbooks and strike or will have to strike in the economic sense, purchasing only that which is necessary.

Then the house will fall down. The spiral will collapse with a thud. Declining demand will cause declining production unemployment - depression.

From then on the depression can go many ways. The government cannot collect even 35 billion dollars or a fraction of it from a country in the throes of depression. Declining business brings declining tax receipts. The government can hardly borrow on top of a 300 billion dollar war debt for deficit financing to promote another gigantic spending program to save the situ-

It would probably start the printing presses and bring to its final logical conclusion the bankruptcy of the nation, because this is the only thing it could do.

In this process everyone who has anything of value from a bank account to a bond would lose it or suffer a terrific depreciation of anything he was able to hold through the crisis. But those who have nothing of value would suffer more severely, for it is reasonable to expect the starvation here that every other nation in similar circumstances has encountered.

Then would come dictatorial socialism. It would have to be a dictatorship because the world knows no other way to handle people who will not behave of their own accord. It would have to be socialism because this is the common political method today of handling nations in bankruptcy.

The Truman administration has been working behind its doors the last week trying to get a wage policy upon which to base solutions, but has found it hard to do. Labor Secretary Schwellenbach thought we had one in the oil settlement, but after the bricks started falling upon his head for that one, he crawled out of the pile with an aching head, aware, he had made a mistake.

After all, if you give the men a 15 per cent increase and then grant them the right to negotiate or arbitrate for another 15 per cent, you have not solved much.

Take My Word For It!

By FRANK COLBY _____

WORDS TO WATCH

The cloth, worsted, is so called because it was first woven from twisted yarn in the town of Worsted Norfolk county, England.

Worsted yarn was known centuries ago, for Chaucer speaks of it in one of his Canterbury Tales (14th century). To pronounce worsted century). To prohounce worsted correctly, omit the "r," and give the first syllable the "o" sound of "wood, woman," thus: WOOS-ted, Note. Worsted, the cloth, should not be confused with the word "worsted," the past tense of worst, and meaning, "defeated; overthrown." The words have no connection, for the sameness of spelling is accidental. Distinguish between the words by pronouncing the cloth worsted as: WOOS-ted, and the verb as: WUR-sted.

The Massachusetts city, Worcester, was named for Worcestershire, England. The "r" is silent in the first syllable. The "o" has the "oo" sound as in "wood, woman." Say: WOOS-ter.

Worcestershire sauce also was named for the English town. Do not pronounce the name as it is spelled. First choice: WOOS-tershear; second: WOOS-ter-sher.

De luxe, a French phrase meaning "excessively sumptuous, very elaborate," is so overworked in American commercial parlance that it has scarcely any meaning at all; and the common mispronunciation is "DEE lucks."

The correct French pronunciation is not used in America because of our difficulty in pronouncing the French "u." Say: dee LOOKS.

Finds New Fungue Microscopic fungi exhibit strange ntagonisms toward each other. me of them in their growth procses give off substances that hinthe growth, or sometimes are gatal to other fungi. Penicillin is one such of a large group. A fungi, aspergillus ustus, which prevents the growth of the bacteria causing tuberculosis, which also is a fungus, is reported by Dr. Joseph M. Kurung of the New York State hospital for Incipient Tuberculosis, Ray Brook, N. Y. He has extracted an active agent from cultures which small doses are not toxic to mice. Dr. Kurung is seeking a highly purified extract before proceeding with further experimental tests.

Feed Alters Chickens Type and color of feathers in New Hampshire Red chickens have been influenced by the kind of grain fed. Untreated oat hulls and wheat bran produced dark, uniform, glossy and complete feathering. Cooking oat hulls under pressure destroyed their ability to produce normal color, and feathers were light and not uniform. Ground wheat alone produced feathers which were soft and silky, but ground wheat and wheat shorts fed together produced the most chicks with abnormal plumage.

Advice from County Agent

The county extension agent is a good man to give dependable information on local land values. He can direct servicemen or veterans on the lookout for land to a practical farmer who is prepared to draw on his own experience to offer suggestions and advice. Five or more such farmers comprise the county veterans' agricultural advisory committee organized last fall by the county

A new modified cotton fabric that will not mildew nor rot, and that has withstood burial in the ground more than six months with only slight loss in strength has been developed by scientists of the U.S. department of agriculture. One important use of the treated fabric will be for manufacture of bags for packaging fruits and vegetables.

Substantial Quality Food a Necessity on Winter Social Menu

Fiesta punch is delicious served either hot or cold. No sugar is required when one of the suggested substitutes is used, and the beverage can be quickly made a short time before guests arrive.

With so many families returning to the old home town, and couples who married during the war finally getting settled together, welcome parties are becoming quite the style. Social engagement books which looked blank are now filled again.

Yes, entertaining is due for a re-vival. This is the time, because the holiday season is approaching in full glory. Food is not the problem it was last year although there still are restrictions, and it's fairly easy to serve something nice and make the table look its prettiest.

If the group is mixed and there are a number of men (big eaters, now that they have learned to have lots of chow or go to mess regularly!), plan to have a substantial casserole dish with some hearty trimmings like big salads and rich-looking cakes or pastry.

Or, if the affair is to be just a snack, serve bread with a choice of fillings and the usual accompaniments like potato chips, pickles, olives, relishes, and punch or some favorite beverage.

Suggestion I. Assorted Bread: Oatmeal, Raisin,

White and Rye. Sandwich Fillings: Nippy Cheese

and Peanut Butter. Relishes: Olives, Radishes, Carrot Sticks, and Celery Hearts. Beverage: Orange Juice or Fiesta

Nippy Cheese Filling.

Combine equal parts of cream cheese and butter. Add salt and paprika to taste and 1 teaspoon each of finely minced parsley, pickles, olives and green pepper. Flavor with sardine paste.

Peanut Butter Filling.

Peanut butter may be served alone or it may be combined with any of the following for a delicious filling: jam, chopped bacon or grated raw carrots.

Fiesta Punch. (Makes 1/2 gallon)

1 cup strong tea 3/4 cup sugar, honey or corn syrup 1/2 cup lemon juice

11/2 cups orange juice 1 cup grape juice

1 quart water Make the strong tea by pouring 1 cup boiling water over 4 teaspoons of tea. Dissolve sugar or substitutes in the hot, strained tea. (The tea should steep first for 5 minutes.) For a hot punch, combine the tea with the fruit juices and add the water which should be boiling hot. Serve at once. For cold punch, chill the tea and combine with well-chilled fruit juices and iced water. Garnish the punch with slices of orange and lemon.

LYNN SAYS

Care for Your Silverware: Clean, hot, soapy water is recommended for both flat serving pieces and tableware. Rinse in boiling water after washing and wipe dry as soon as possible.

To remove tarnish, use a good silver polish or wet a little sifted whiting with ammonia and apply with a soft cloth. Let stand until dry, rub off with soft cloth, rinse and polish with a second cloth or chamois.

Silver tarnished with egg should be cleaned immediately.

A small soft brush is best for cleaning ornamental pieces.

Silverware should never be heated directly or placed on the range. Serving dishes may be heated over hot water or kept warm on the radiator if an asbestos pad is placed under them.

Suggestion II. Farm Sausage Casserole Combination Salad Crusted Rolls

Beverage The main dish for this hearty snack can be made ready before company comes, and then heated about half an hour before serving time rolls around.

Favorite Cake

Farm Sausage Casserole. (Serves 6)

11/2 cups broken macaroni 1/2 cup diced American cheese

1 tablespoon minced onion 34 teaspoon salt 11/2 cups thin white sauce

1 cup green peas, cooked 1/2 cup sauteed mushrooms

1/4 cup chopped pimiento 1 pound pork sausages, broiled

Buttered bread crumbs Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain and rinse. Combine with all remaining ingredients, except sausages and bread crumbs. Place in casserole which has been greased. Top with sausages and sprinkle a few bread crumbs over the top. Heat in a slow (325-degree) oven for 25 minutes.

Combination Salad. (Serves 6 to 8)

1 head lettuce 1 cucumber

2 to 3 tomatoes 1 bunch radishes

1 bunch small onions 1 green pepper Celery curls

Carrot curls French dressing Wash all vegetables carefully and allow to chill. Break lettuce into chunks and line salad bowl. Toss in all other ingredients which have been sliced or cut into pieces and sprinkle french dressing

Favorite Cake. 1 cup whipping cream

1 cup sugar 2 eggs

1 teaspoon vanilla

11/2 cups sifted cake flour 2 teaspoons baking powder

Whip the cream until slightly thickened but not stiff enough to hold a peak. Fold in the sugar gently, the beaten eggs and vanilla. Add the flour which has been sifted with the baking powder and a speck of salt. Mix only until smooth. Place in two shallow cake pans and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 25 minutes. Cool. Frost with sevenminute icing and sprinkle with coconut. Or, frost with whipped cream and sprinkle with coconut.

For impromptu entertaining, there's nothing easier to prepare than a tray of sandwich spreads with assorted bread and health drinks of citrus fruit juices in colorful glasses.

Seven-Minute Icing.

1 egg white, unbeaten 3 tablespoons cold water 1/8 cup granulated sugar

1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar 1/2 teaspoon vanilla Place all ingredients in top of dou-

WHEN THE DOCTOR COMES MARCHING HOME

It will be nice to phone a doctor's office again and find he is not in Europe, Asia or Africa.

So many physicians were taken into the war that the chances have been at least four to one that when you went to one's office you would see a sign "Out to Global War, Return Ultimately" on the door.

The few doctors left at home were harder to see than a world series.

The lines were almost as long, and some patients arrived the night before and sat on soap boxes all night in order to get'in first in the morning.

Patients had to wait so long for their turn, even when they got inside the house, that they often outgrew the original ailment and developed new symptoms during the

These were tough years for hypochondriacs. When they imagined they were sick they also had to imagine they could get a physician.

It was tough on the doctors too. They were as overworked as subway guards in a rush hour. Their one regret was that they were unable to feel four pulses at a time.

Many a medico was in worse shape than the patients. One of the laughs of wartime was a doctor telling a patient "You're working too hard. You've got to take it easy."

When you finally got out of the waiting room and into a doctor's office you were brushed off faster than a man on a revolving floor. You left too dizzy to remember what he said. He was too dizzy to remember what was wrong with you.

It was nothing unusual to have a doctor greet you with "What is your ailment? I'll give you ten seconds."

Personally we were in a tough spot; five of our six doctors were in Asia. We always try to keep a second string team, but they were away, also. The only one left looked so run down we couldn't bear to see him. But one day we dropped in.

"What's the matter with you?" he asked. "I'm a nervous wreck," we replied.

"From what?" he asked. "From watching you try to handle your business," we replied.

Then we gave him some pills he had once prescribed for us, told him he looked terrible and warned him to take it easy or he might need medical attention.

TELEPHONE WIRE THAT'S TOUGH!

High-strength steel wire-so strong that one strand will lift over half a ton without breaking-is one way farm telephone service will be made better and easier to get.

Telephone engineers began using this tough telephone wire on rural lines even before the war. Distances between poles, due to its greater strength, jumped from 250 feet or less to as much as 450. The resulting fewer poles meant lower construction costs. Sleet storms -perennial enemy of farm telephone linesdid far less damage, and maintenance expense dwindled. Better construction is only one of the plans telephone engineers have for better farm telephone service. Talking over electric power lines, a new development now undergoing actual field tests, is another; radiotelephones for remote places, a third.
